Milliman Awarded ‘Save 10’ Recognition for Helping Workers Save for Future
Award by Financial Services Roundtable recognizes Milliman for offering employee programs to save for retirement

Washington, DC—With more than half of Americans not saving enough for retirement, the Financial Services Roundtable (FSR), Washington’s leading financial trade association, is recognizing Milliman with a “Save 10” award for their tremendous efforts to help their employees prepare for a secure retirement by enabling them to save 10% of their income.

The newly-launched “Save 10” campaign is a business to business, peer to peer effort to encourage responsible employers to help their employees save for a secure financial future by initiating programs to encourage employees to put aside 10% or more of their income each year.

Milliman’s plan includes a 50% matching contribution on a 6% auto-enrollment provision and a generous profit-sharing contribution. The profit sharing contribution, which has historically been 10% of compensation annually, paired with the matching contribution, provides for high average account balances among participants in the Milliman plan.

“One of the best ways to increase retirement savings in America is through employers and Milliman is leading the way,” said FSR CEO and former Minnesota Governor Tim Pawlenty. “Save 10 will be an easy way for workers to think about saving. There are many companies like Milliman helping to put their employees on the right path to savings and Save 10 will recognize those employers in an effort to encourage others in the marketplace to follow suit.”

One of the cornerstones of Save 10 is to encourage “auto-save” programs. Auto save includes programs such as auto-enrollment in a retirement plan upon being hired and auto-escalating an employee’s savings contributions as their income rises. Nearly 82% of employees save for retirement when their employers offer an Auto Save program – compared with just 64% when employers do not. The Save 10 campaign aims to fundamentally change these facts.

To be considered for recognition as a Save 10 employer, companies must certify that they engage in certain activities that qualify the company as Save 10 certified. These activities include offering a retirement plan, contributing to employee retirement accounts, ensuring employees can “keep 10” by providing access to disability and life insurance plans and other criteria.

Companies, including Milliman, who have committed to being early ambassadors for Save 10 will be recognized at an event in Washington, DC today.
